Q. What policies do you support to improve and secure elections and voting in our country?

Joseph R. Biden A. I've fought for voting rights since I first got involved in politics, helping to secure several extensions of the Voting Rights Act. But in 2013, the Supreme Court ripped the heart out of those voter protections. As president, I'll enact legislation to restore the full force of the Voting Rights Act, and my Justice Department will challenge every one of the new Jim Crow laws that are now curtailing people's right to vote. I'll also boost state funding for secure voting with a paper record, and for better information sharing. I'll fight for automatic and same-day voter registration. And I'll make sure that any country or group that seeks to interfere in our elections faces real and serious consequences.

Q. Please explain where you see opportunities for Democrats and Republicans to find common ground on the very serious issues facing our country.

Joseph R. Biden A. The next president will inherit a divided nation and a world in disarray. They'll need to hit the ground running to fix Trump's mess, restore our global standing, and bring people together to get things done. Our next president will need to be a president for ALL Americans. I refuse to accept that we can't work together to solve tough problems. It's what democracy is all about. We can rebuild the middle class with historic investments in infrastructure, tackle prescription drug companies' profiteering, build on Obamacare with a public option - and so much more. I know how to find common ground without compromising my values.

Q. What, if any, steps will you take to reform current immigration policies?

Joseph R. Biden A. We're a nation that values immigrants – it's how we've constantly been able to renew our democracy. As president, I'll reverse Trump's assault on our values on day one, ending his cruel asylum policies, especially his Migrant Protection Protocols, family separation, and public charge rule. I'll address the root causes pushing people to flee Central America. I'll act immediately to protect Dreamers and their families. Then I'll invest real political capital to finally deliver legislative immigration reform to modernize our system, giving nearly

11 million undocumented people a path to citizenship, updating our visa system to sharpen our economic competitive edge, and preserving family unification and diversity as cornerstones of our system

Q. Please explain the policies, if any, you support to address gun violence in America.

Joseph R. Biden A. Gun violence is a public health epidemic. We need courage to stand up to the NRA and fix our broken gun laws. I've beaten it before – twice. As president, I'll do it again. I'll ban assault weapons and high-capacity magazines and require background checks for all gun sales. I'll fight for red-flag laws and close the Charleston and boyfriend loopholes, to get guns out of dangerous hands.

I'll invest in smart gun technology and new strategies to reduce daily gun violence in cities. I'll work to heal trauma that outlasts shootings, starting by doubling the number of school mental health professionals. And I'll address the deadly nexus of gun violence and domestic violence, starting by signing into law the Violence Against Women Act of 2019.

Q. What, if any, actions would you work towards in your first 100 days to address the threats facing the US due to climate change?

Joseph R. Biden A. Climate change is our most urgent threat. Beating Trump won't end it, but it's key to all progress. In

DEMOCRAT

JOSEPH R. BIDEN (DEM)

1986, I introduced one of the first climate bills; PolitiFact says I'm a "climate change pioneer." Now, I've outlined a bold plan to match today's crisis – putting us on a path to a 100% clean-energy economy and net-zero emissions by 2050. On day one, I'll rejoin the Paris Accord, restore American leadership, and push the world to do more. I'll invest $1.7 trillion in clean energy research and development, and in transforming our infrastructure – from electric vehicle charging stations to high-speed rail – reducing emissions and withstanding the impacts of a changing climate, and creating 10 million good-paying jobs, that can be union jobs.

Q. What are your top three priorities to address as Attorney General?

A. 1. Keep PA Safe-The Commonwealth Attorneys Act states one of the main roles of the AG is criminal prosecutions. This would be my top priority. The AG works with local DAs and law enforcement to keep PA residents safe, including a strong commitment to addressing drug trafficking and the opioid crisis. 2. Put People Before Politics-Restore the AG's Office to following mandates set forth in the Commonwealth Attorneys Act and perform lawyering for the people of PA versus using the office for political gain. 3. Protect the Mentally Ill-Establish a Blue Ribbon Panel of experts from PA to examine the treatment of the mentally ill, address the current state of mental illness, and more. The panel would issue a Report suggesting structural changes.

Q. The Office of the Pennsylvania Attorney General is responsible for law enforcement and the equal protection of law for all citizens. What do you see as the primary challenges to achieving equality under the law?

ON-LINE VOTERS GUIDE

The Vote411 Online Voters Guide is available at www.vote411.org. Links to this guide as well as links to Vote411 and other useful information for voters can be found on the League of Women Voters of Pennsylvania homepage: www.palwv.org.

A. Keeping PA safe has to be the top priority of the AG. The AG's statutory role is the prosecutor of crime. The AG has to prioritize resources, so scarce resources are used for the highest priority tasks of the office. Crime enforcement, in conjunction with the DAs, is the first priority. Crime operates across County and jurisdictional lines, so coordination with multiple County DAs is critical. Investigations that may take years and cost millions can't be wasted by prosecutors failing to follow criminal procedure. The AG must take an active role in the management of the office. The purpose of prosecuting crime is to ensure safety, not create headlines. With that purpose in mind, equal protection for all should be achieved.

Q. What role will your administration play in reforming systemic problems and supporting restorative justice in our criminal justice system?

A. As the County Councilperson At Large on Allegheny County Council, I was critical of the operation of the county jail. The Allegheny County jail had more suicides than any other jail in the country. I determined that one county employee had repeatedly failed to process the proper release of a large number of people from the jail, and she was terminated. Each day someone is in jail, it cost taxpayers, they become a suicide risk and lose their liberty unnecessarily. As AG, I would continue to advocate for government institutions to properly run jails and prisons. Jails and/or prisons must be properly run so we have the space to jail criminals, not those who don't belong there.

PENNSYLVANIA AUDITOR GENERAL

JOB DESCRIPTION

The principal role of the Auditor General is to determine whether state funds are being used in accordance with the purpose and guidelines that govern each use of the Commonwealth's dollars. The Auditor General conducts financial and performance audits of individuals, state agencies, and organizations that receive state funds, including school districts, state liquor stores, and public employee pension funds. These audits are designed to measure how effectively government programs are using public money to meet their stated goals and objectives. The office performs more than 6,000 audits each year, and is responsible for auditing all federal funds that are allocated to Pennsylvania state programs.

Q. What are your top three priorities in office?

A. The Auditor General is our 1st line of defense against public corruption. I plan to address that in part by bringing unprecedented levels of transparency to the Commonwealth. I have developed several tools of transparency for greater public engagement into the issues of public finance. I plan to bring those tools to the Commonwealth. During time of crisis it is important to recognize that some will see an opportunity for fraud. I have developed a plan to address these concerns including testing for price gouging, addressing misinformation, protecting whistleblowers and monitoring stimulus spending. PA's largest cost is education. I plan to devote significant resources to hold accountable our charter schools and all institutions of learning.

Q. What distinguishes you from other candidates who are seeking to be Pennsylvania's next Auditor General?

A. As City Controller it has been my job every day to watch over spending and protect taxpayers from waste, fraud and abuse. My record of fiscal responsibility, innovation, reform and open government helped me to play a key role in leading Pittsburgh out of near bankruptcy. My efforts to address our legacy costs while protecting our public assets have helped place our city on firm financial footing. As county row officer, I put people first by advocating a reform that eliminated my own job while generating savings to our taxpayers. As an attorney I have focused on helping communities restructure their finances while helping pension fund trustees address losses to their portfolios due to fraud. I am uniquely qualified to be Auditor General.

Q. What are your top three priorities in office?

A. 1. Addressing the impact of significant staff shortages, as a result of continual legislative budget cuts, on the department's ability to properly and in a timely complete 5000 mandated audits annually. At the time of my hire, the Department had 850 employees statewide and was down to 392 at November 1, 2019, while still being responsible for the completion of 5000 audits annually.

2. Preventing the fraudulent use of PA's COVID-19 Economic Stimulus Funds and Small Business Loans proceeds by helping to ensure that these funds are properly awarded to PA's intended recipients.

3. Protecting the lives of PA's most vulnerable citizens-our children, our elderly, and mentally challenged.

Q. What distinguishes you from other candidates who are seeking to be Pennsylvania's next Auditor General?

A. I am the only candidate in this race who, in addition to being a CPA, served in leadership roles in the administrations of the current and prior three Auditor Generals. As a result, I know this department, its staff, where they are strong, and where improvements are needed, making me the only candidate in this race who will be ready on Day 1 of taking office to effectively lead this department, especially given the department's significant staff cuts. I am also the only candidate in this race who, while on the campaign trail, issued 2 OP-ED pieces: 1. Policy to Support PA Attorney General's Efforts to Monitor State Funds Awarded to NonProfits 2. Q. What are your top three priorities in office?

A. 1. The top priority is to save the PA taxpayers roughly $600,000 dollars of extra salary cost because as the next Auditor General, there will be no need to hire another CPA to direct the audit team because I have the direct CPA experience to handle the technical job. 2. Addressing public school district funding inequality. I plan to review public school district funding from a top-down approach. 3. A significant portion of State taxpayer-sponsored programs and services are outsourced to 3rd-party contractors who provide substandard and inadequate services. I will conduct more performance and effectiveness audits of 3rd-party contracts. The shared ride program for elderly and vulnerable citizens is on top of the list.

Q. What distinguishes you from other candidates who are seeking to be Pennsylvania's next Auditor General?

A. I am the most qualified candidate because I am a financial professional that has CPA public accounting and federal audit experience. I have a lifetime of managing audit teams and bringing real results to my clients over the years. Q. What are your top three priorities in office?

A. Healthcare, Education and Violence. These are all informed by the theme of my campaign, which is accountability and transparency and the understanding that the taxpayers end up paying more if we ignore the problems that perpetuate inequality and injustice. I will take on Big Pharma to lower costs on life-saving medicines with a focus on Pharmacy Benefits manager to increase efficiencies. I will protect and increase education funding to make sure our students have the best education in safe and healthy environments. I will focus on ending violence including sexual harassment/violence, advocate to end nondisclosure settlements as well as address gun violence by giving lawmakers the data to fight the NRA and pass tough new gun laws.

Q. What distinguishes you from other candidates who are seeking to be Pennsylvania's next Auditor General?

A. I believe that the Auditor General's office can be a powerful tool for progressive change. I am running to deliver real results in the fight for equality, accountability and transparency. My life experience of surviving the violent Liberation War of Bangladesh makes me cherish the promise of America, of a good education, quality healthcare and economic opportunity. I have a firm path to victory. Starting with a small lead ahead of everyone, I jumped to a 34-point advantage on my nearest competitor state-wide when voters learned about my approach and background as a scientist, policymaker and former local President of NOW. I am the only Philadelphia candidate in the race that historically makes-up half the state-wide turnout in elections.

Q. What are your top three priorities in office?

A. My priorities are education, healthcare, and criminal justice reform.

Education audits account for a third of this office's work. I will evaluate the discrepancy between the standards and funding for public schools and charter schools, which are often held to lower standards, harming our students on the taxpayers' dime.

Healthcare costs continue to rise, especially for seniors. I will look at rising drug costs and nursing home treatment of seniors, to ensure that Medicare/Medicaid dollars are spent well for our most vulnerable.

For criminal justice, I will examine inefficiencies created by focusing on punishment over rehabilitation leading to high recidivism rates, a truly inefficient and ineffective use of our tax dollars.

Q. What distinguishes you from other candidates who are seeking to be Pennsylvania's next Auditor General?

A. I have the technical, leadership, and political experience to win in November and lead the Auditor General's office.

I'm the only candidate who has run in a competitive general election with Trump at the top of the ticket and narrowed the GOP margin. When I ran for Congress in 2016, we raised $1.25 million and got endorsed by the national party and EMILY's List, in a district originally deemed too red to win. That experience is going to be crucial in 2020.

Finally, we are running a true statewide campaign. We have more than 60 endorsements, including Gov. Rendell, in 18 counties, and I've been to 45 of 67 counties. As a candidate from central PA, I'm working to unite Democrats across the state to make sure we turn PA blue in November.

Q. What is the most important duty of the State Treasurer? If elected, how would you carry out that duty?

A. From Day One, my most important duty has been restoring integrity to an office too often marred by scandal—three of the last five elected Treasurers have been indicted. Upon taking office, I immediately banned the use of middlemen to win investment contracts and introduced Treasury's first-ever conflict-of-interest policy and Chief Integrity Officer.

In addition to restoring integrity, we've created the Keystone Scholars program, which gives at-birth college and career savings accounts to every child born or adopted in Pennsylvania after January 1, 2019. Furthermore, we fight to hold Wall Street accountable to taxpayers, including through legal action when necessary and as trustees for our public pension systems.

Q. What distinguishes you from your opponent in the general election?

A. I have spent my career in the public sector, fighting for the responsible use of taxpayer funds in our civic institutions. Before serving as Treasurer, I was the U.S. Ambassador for UN Management and Reform. Prior to that, I was the founding President and CEO of the National Constitution Center and Philadelphia's Deputy Mayor for Policy and Planning.

What these roles have in common is a dedication to the highest and best use of funds, contributed by the masses, toward a common goal. They each require the careful stewardship of someone else's contribution: to reinforce effective international cooperation; to build a beautiful civic resource for our nation; or to resolve a $1.25 billion deficit and revitalize a vibrant major American city.

Q. What would be your top priorities as a U.S. Representative over the next two years?

A. 1. Use caution and common sense instead of fear and control in order to reopen American businesses and help American workers get back on track. 2. Balance the budget, and begin to roll back the $25 trillion debt for the sake of our children, grandchildren, and the survival of the United States of America. Both our people and institutions are leveraged and living on borrowed time. 3. Restore federalism so that the federal government will partner with our state and local governments rather than dictate mandates--such as the "rain tax" and public school testing--in order to pay for the government and make it work for the people. 4. Work with the President to move the country forward and stop the political games.

Q. The landmark Shelby v. Holder decision overturned protections in the Voting Rights Act of 1965 that required certain states and local governments to obtain federal preclearance before implementing voting laws or practices. Since then, the U.S. has experienced a surge of legislation that makes it more difficult for many people to vote.

What voting reforms do you see as essential to making U.S. elections accessible and secure?

A. US elections have never been more accessible than they are right now; concurrently, they are less secure than ever. I am extremely concerned with the historic fraud that has happened not only in PA elections, but across the nation. Exchanging convenience for accountability at the ballot box has cheapened our democracy, and to make elections more secure requires ID verification at the polling place. Just last week I read an article from Margaret Meng, who easily obtained three fraudulent mail-in PA ballots. We've seen vote harvesting in California, which decreases the importance of the candidate's message in exchange for ramping up party votes. We have sacrificed security for accessibility. I support any reforms to remove fraud.

Q. How would you go about finding consensus and reducing gridlock in Washington, D.C.?

A. I have served very successfully for eight years as a county councilman by helping build consensus on a board of 11 members. My county adopted a home rule form of government after the "Kids for Cash" scandal. In those early years every action was considered for its transparency and for its reduction of the near half-billion dollar debt left by previous administrations. We saw unprecedented transparency and efficiency. I am bringing that experience and vision to Washington, and leadership means convincing others that your path is the correct one. I think in the aftermath of Covid-19 my ability to stick to my principles, build consensus and treat others as I would like to be treated will serve Northeastern Pennsylvania well in the Congress.

WRITE-IN VOTING

Information for write-in voting will be available at the polling place.

Q. What would be your top priorities as a U.S. Representative over the next two years?

A. My number one priority when elected will be to actually give the people of the 8th Congressional District the representation they deserve. For too long, the people of Northeast Pennsylvania have been used my Congressman Matt Cartwright as a stepping stone for his own political career.

As a lifetime member of the NRA, I will actively defend the Second Amendment in Congress. The Democrats have gotten away with impeding the rights of gun owners for long enough, and I will do everything in my power to strengthen the rights of gun owners.

I will also actively work with President Trump on his agenda for the American people. Donald Trump was elected by the people in 2016, and has faced resistance ever since.

Q. The landmark Shelby v. Holder decision overturned protections in the Voting Rights Act of 1965 that required certain states and local governments to obtain federal preclearance before implementing voting laws or practices. Since then, the U.S. has experienced a surge of legislation that makes it more difficult for many people to vote.

What voting reforms do you see as essential to making U.S. elections accessible and secure?

A. As a Conservative Republican, I feel that this is an issue best left to the states. Rather than top-down regulations coming from D.C. that can strain the capacities of local election facilities, it should be left up to each individual state to determine the best way for their state to secure their election.

Q. How would you go about finding consensus and reducing gridlock in Washington, D.C.?

A. As Representative, it would be my job to represent the views of the people of the 8th Congressional District. But too often, elected officials go to D.C. with the intentions of furthering their own political careers. When this happens, these elected officials take actions that benefit only themselves, and not their constituency or even the Congress as a whole, causing gridlock. I have pledged to serve a maximum of three terms, placing term limits on myself to show that I am accountable only to the people of the 8th Congressional District. When members of Congress work for their constituents and not themselves, the prospects of breaking gridlock and finding consensus become much greater.
